There is a discrepancy in the two accounts given in the Journal and Democrat of the 25th inst., of the taking of the seventeen rebel prisoners at Taylorsville, on the 24th inst., by the Federal cavalry, which renders a publication of a correct statement of the facts necessary. These prisoners were taken by a scouting party of about 250 men, made up of a detachment of about 150 from the Ninth Kentucky cavalry, under command of Captain Smith, and a detach-

Col. Wilder's Report of the Affair at Munfordville.

CAVE CITY, Sept. 18, 1862. To J. E. Stacy, A. A. G., and Captain of

SIR: I have the honor to report that, on the 8th of September, 1862, in accordance to a special order from General Boyle, I assumed command of the forces at Munfordville, Kentucky. I immediately set to work building fortifications for the defense of the railroad bridge over Green river. On Sunday, September 9th, I was informed that the railroad bridge at Salt river had been burned by the rebels. Our supplies being sufficient for one day only, I immediately began collecting flour and bacon in the untry about us, and got some bread from Bowlinggreen, and managed to get rations for fifteen days. At the same time I ordered the Home Guard companies and the ecruids for the Thirty-third Kentucky, who had no arms, to spread out over the country, and act in the capacity of scouts. They served me admirably in this respect, giving notice of Bragg's approach when over fifty miles distant, and notifying me of his numbers, pieces of artillery, direction taken, &c., in every move made by him in his advance from Cumberland river. Of this I kept you as well posted as possible, but not

Our entire loss was 37 killed and wound. The enemy admit a loss of 714 killed and wounded on Sunday alone.

I cannot give as complete a report as I ould wish, not having received a report from the different commanders engaged. On Tuesday evening, at 7 o'clock, I was again placed in command; by this time Gen. Polk had crossed the river ten miles above with the right wing of Gen. Bragg's army, and coming down on the north side, ook up a position on the river hills commanding our works, the left wing, under General Hardee, having taken a position on the south side of the river. General Wadsworth was serenaded tonight. He answered that his friends came to congratulate him, because he had re-ceived the nomination as candidate for Governor of New York, from a convention composed of the truest friends of the Govrnment and country, and the most earnest supporters of the war. He said he had not earned this compliment by any public service, for he held no official position in his native State, but he claimed in their hoice a significance and meaning, and plainly remarked that he had been presented for the suffrage of the people, by men who believed that the rebellion can ught to be crushed, and who intend to hold the country together at whatever cost of blood, suffering and treasure.

The issue is made up that we are to conuer or to be conquered by the aristocracy; that we are either in the fangs of dissolution or exorcism: if we would save ourselves we must cast out this devil, which has corrupted and disgraced us from the time of our national birth.

Governor Blair said that it had been said that our armies were to make another circle; but after this the country requires this battle to be fought out immediately. Abraham Lincoln, God bless him, has hould be taken by the throat, and when it is strangled we shall be free forever. He anticipated the most beneficial results from the proclamation. Ex-Gov. Boutwell, Mass., spoke in complimentary terms of the nomination of Wadsworth and said, in supporting the proclamation, the principles of freedom are not bounded by race. All men created in the image of their maker are entitled to equal rights before the land. It is the denial of this which has compelled us to partake of the cup of humiliation to its very dregs.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29. The Times has the following special: W. D. PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29. The special correspondent of Forney's Press, writing from Pensacola on the 19th, gives the following items:

The steam frigate Susquehanna has been condemned and will proceed home the first opportunity. The Iroquois has her machinery injured and goes home soon. The Winona made her way through an intricate passage, and got into a position to enable her to fire over the canal with effect at the enemy's gun boats, one of which she hit with three 11-inch shells, which rendered the rebel boat unmanageable and prevented her from steaming up the harbor. Fort Morgan opened a heavy fire upon the Winona, and compelled her to beat a hasty retreat. She received no injury from the shots of the fort, which struck around her and passed over her to a distance of half a mile, showing that her distance could e less than three miles and a half. Such brilliant reconnoissances, frequently performed, would batter to pieces the enemy's fleet, and render it a more easy undertaking for Faragut's fleet, when operations rre begun against Mobile.

Maj. Gen. William Nelson Killed. Our city was startled about 8 o'clock vesterday morning by the report that a difficulty had occurred at the Galt House, between Maj. Gen. Wm. Nelson and Brig. Gen. Jefferson C. Davis, in which Gen. Nelson received a death wound. There seems to be but one statement in regard to the cause of the unfortunate difficulty, which dates back to last week, when Gen. Nelson placed Gen. Davis in command of the Home Guard forces in our city. It runs as follows: At the close of the day, when Gen. Davis reported to Gen. Nelson the number of men rolled for service, he (Davis) was denounced and cursed for not having more. Davis replied that he had done his duty, when Nelson, in a gruff manner, ordered him to report to Cincinnati, and threatened that he would have the Provost Guard eject him from the city. Davis replied that he was a general officer and should be treated as a gentleman.

Yesterday morning, at the Galt House, as Gov. Morton and Gen. Nelson were standing near the office desk (both gentlemen gave, we believe, great satisfaction amongst having just left the breakfast table), Gen. Davis approached and asked Gov. Morton to witness the conversation between him-General Nelson an apology for the rude treatment he had received last week. General Nelson, being a little deaf, asked him to speak louderstating that he was hard of hearing. Davis again demanded an explanation and aplogy. Nelson denounced him, and slapped him on the head. Davis stepped back, and seemed to clench his fist, and turned and again addressed Gen. Nelson, when Nelson slapped him in the face, and denounced him as a coward. Gen. Davis turned away, remarking to Gen. Nelson that "this is not the last of it." He crossed the large hall at the Galt House, and meeting Capt. T. W. Gibson, asked him if he had a weapon. Gibson handed Davis the pistol without making they will spoil. If they can't find someany inquiry as to the use he wished to make of it. Gen. Davis then crossed back to the point he left, and met Gen. Nelson up stairs. Gen. Davis told him to defend city as large as this. himself, and almost immediately fired, the ball penetrating Gen. Nelson's left breast, cutting the main artery above the heart. After being shot, Nelson turned and walk- be Dilbitt Chinton, was found dead on Han-He was taken into an adjoining room, and streets. He belonged to some artillery yond the aid of medical skill.

He was a noble specimen of the human race-brave, reckless and impulsive-ever willing to sell his life to the enemy. It is a source of sorrow that he should have fallen by the hand of a brother officer, but he would not brook from another the rude insult he had offered Gen. Davis, and could expect no gallant gentleman to take it from himself.

There is a right way and a wrong way to do a thing. In this unfortunate case, both men have been in fault. The country needed the services of each. They gives the enemy food to gloat over for at dead. least a month to come.

The London Times earnestly denounces the policy of the Abolitionists of the North in seeking to raise the negroes of the South against their masters. It says the Abolitionists are endeavoring to conspire against legitimate warfare, but thinks they will not be successful in attempting. It adds: Indeed, it is difficult to see how a proclamation, by an absent or fugitive president, can have any greater effect than the documents issued by such Generals as Hun-ter and Phelps; inciting negroes to re-volt. It trusts that President Lincoln will refrain from an act which will be at once a crime and a blunder, which will in no way advance the Federal cause, but only deepen and make eternal hatred between the two sections. The New York correspondent London Times is of the opinion that Europe need not fear that the North will unite to to repel foreign interevention. It's courage is gone, and the game is lost. Washing-ton knows it, if New York does not, that the Abolitionists are destroying the Union by their frantic efforts to save it. ANDY.—

The Rebels at Augusta-The Enemy Completely Routed. The following is the account in full in the Cincinnati Gazette, of the attack on Augusta, Kentucky:

This place was attacked by a force of mounted rebels, six hundred and forty strong, with two cannon, under command of a younger brother of Col. John Morgan, at three o'clock this afternoon. Their first attack was made by a portion of them on the steamboats Belfast and Florence Miller, with the intention of capturing them, but although the boats were completely riddled with musket and rifle shots, they made their escape without any person being hurt, In the meantime the rest of the force became engaged with the Union force under Col Bradford, numbering 120 men, the most of whom took refuge in the houses, and fired from the windows with deadly effect on the rebels, killing and wounding ninety men. Amongst the killed are three Captains, one of them a younger brother of Morgan. Amongst the mortally wounded is the Lieutenant Colonel in command, a son of G, D. Prentice, of the Louisville Journal. This heavy loss exasperated the rebels so much that they set fire to every house they were fired upon from, which, spreading to other houses, burnt down two squares of the town. The casualties to our force is nine killed and fifteen wounded, though it is feared several citizens were consumed in the burning buildings. With the exception of a few that escaped, the rest of our men, with most of the rebels. Lieut.-Col. Prentice, second in command of the rebels, lays in Mr. McKibben's house, so badly wounded it is thought he cannot live till morning.

DISCOVERY OF a REBEL AGENT AT WASH-INGTON .- I will give the last bit of gossip, although it has a spice of scandal in it. For a long time it has been known that the rebels have had some means by which they gained the earliest and most reliable infor-mation that could come only from some official sources. For instance the removal of General Hunter was alluded to in Jeff. Davis' message long before the fact was known to our people. Many parties have been suspected and watched, but no one was detected. Last week, it is now said, Gen. Halleck ran the thread of suspicion and his proof up to the hand that held it. It proved to be a weman, the wife of a loyal man who has been quite conspicuous in this war. The proof is said to be overwhelming and unquestioned. The party is one long suspected, and Gen. Halleck demanded that the party should at once be carried from the Such is the rumor from the lips of those who are usually well informed, and who have no doubt of facts. The name of the suspected party I do not think proper to give .- Washington Correspondent reports the screw steamer Alabama, better Journal.

2. Company organizations will be a once effected, and elections of company of-ficers held. The names of the officers elect, and the muster roll of the company, will be immediately returned to this office, in order that commissions may be issued without delay.

3. When more than six companies have assembled at a single rendezvous, a battal-ion may be at once organized, and its officers elected and reported for commissions and if a sufficient number of men shall be found at a single place of rendezvous to form three battalions, they may then go on erfect a regimental organization. 4. The State Guard law having been substantially re-enacted, is hereby referred to for full information as to the details of the organization of companies, battalions, regiments, brigades and divisions. The law will be found printed at length in the ap-pendix to Stanton's Revised Statutes, 2d Vol., pages 780 to 804. Particular attention is called to the provisions of the 7th Section of the law, which prescribes the man-ner of holding elections and mustering men into service.

5. All good and loyal citizens of the Commonwealth, within the military age, are urgently called upon to enroll themselves as members of the State Guard, so as to be ready for service as soon as the arms and equipments can be provided; in the meanime, much instruction may be obtained by drill without arms. 6. Muster rolls and blanks will be furnished on application to this Department.
